Dustin Wells

Musician. Sound ceremony artist. Guide. · Telluride, Colorado

Dustin Wells is a musician, sound ceremony artist, and guide based in Telluride, Colorado. A lifetime jazz musician trained in sound healing, he creates immersive sound journeys built for the room they happen in — sacred instruments layered live with synths, guitar, and voice — that guide the nervous system into the parasympathetic state, where the body does its own healing.

BACKGROUND

- Twenty years leading companies. Founded and led companies for two decades — from a kitchen counter to teams across the country, through best-places-to-work lists, to two acquisitions.
- Five years on the road. A Fine Arts degree in jazz and percussion, then five years as a professional touring jazz musician. Music was first.
- Trained in the lineages. Singing bowls with a teacher from a multi-generational lineage in Nepal. Sacred percussion — taiko — in Japan. Ceremonies in Mexico.
- A rig he built himself. Custom-programmed hardware and software, designed over years to shape sound to the state a room needs in real time.

WHAT THE ROOM EXPERIENCES

Lie down, close your eyes, and be carried by live sound. Gongs, singing bowls, drums, and chimes layered live with synths, guitar, and voice — one immersive soundscape guiding you into the parasympathetic state, where the body does its own healing. No experience needed. There is nothing to do and nothing to get right.
